2. Govt. has decided that for technical departments also competitive exams. should be introduced if the Scale of recruitment is large.

3. So far as the P.W.D. is concerned recruitment at present is being made in respect of :-

(1) Ex. Engr.s
(2) Dy. Engr.s
(3) Overseers.

It is, therefore, for consideration whether the competitive examinations should be introduced for recruitment to the above three establishments.

4. Recruitment in respect of (1) & (2) above is made through the P.S.C. If, therefore, it is decided to introduce competitive exam.s for recruitment to the above establishments, the P.S.C. will be so advised. Recruitment in respect of (3) is made by the local officers who will be informed as per decision of Govt. Further details in respect of exam.s to be held for overseers will be decided later on.

(Through E.B.(I)). Id. 30-4-49.

It is not condidered necessary to hold competitive examination for recruitment of Overseers. The marks and rank obtained by the candidates in the final D.C.E., exam., and their general academic carreer, would be a reasonably correct guide for ensuing proper selection.

As regards recruitment to the posts of Dy. Engr and Ex. Engr, the should, I think, be preceded by competitive examinations. This appears to be necessary on account of the withdrawal of guarentee to the students passing out B.E. (civil) examination from the college of Engineering, Poona, and also because there will be candidates passing B.E. (civil) degree of number of different universities in the Bombay Province; in the near futhre.

The views expressed by Secy. P. W. D. (I) in his note dated the 4-5-49 seems reasonable and P.& S.D. may agree with it. The P.S.C. has also reported that in the case of a few other services in respect of which it proposed making recruitment by competitive exam, it had to drop the proposal as holding of the competitive exam. involved much labour and time whereas owing to the urgent requirement of services recruitment had to be completed as quickly as possible. Though the recommendation of the A.E.C. is sound and Government has, therefore, accepted it; the question of holding competitive exam. for recruitment to most of the services may have to be deferred till the return of normal times.
